IC Probably to Close Car Shops At Centralia

Action Will Come If Business Continues Slack, President Says

WASHINGTON AP — The Illinois Central Railroad probably will close down the main operation at its big Centralia, Ill., shops if business continues slack, President Wayne A. Johnson told Congress Tuesday.

Johnson testified before the Senate's Surface Transportation subcommittee investigating the financial troubles of the nation's railroads.

Emphasizing the "declining traffic and revenues" of his own railroad, Johnson said that if business continues as it is now, no more railway cars will be built at the Centralia shops after the 2,000 scheduled for production there this year are completed.

Car-building is the main operation at the Centralia yards, accounting for the bulk of its labor requirements.

Mr. Johnson, who blamed the move on dwindling rail volume, said the IC now has 58,000 freight cars, more than enough for present traffic. The Centralia shops build about 2,000 cars a year.

"There is no reason to build cars that stand idle," Mr. Johnson told the subcommittee. "I have better keep my dollars until I can use them constructively."

Mr. Johnson was of the opinion that the railroad industry could move out of its present slump if "we are allowed to do things to help ourselves."

He pleaded for aid from Congress in "correcting the inequities that are strangling the railroads."

The railroad president said the IC should be permitted to enter the barge and trucking business and set competitive rates on its rail traffic. Mr. Johnson declared the IC is now losing $18,000,000 worth of traffic a year to barges.

In Centralia, the IC shops comprise the biggest industry. There had been no previous word that the shops would close within a month.

A. C. Williams, 65, Dies At His Home in Eldorado

Navy in San Francisco; two brothers, James of Eldorado and Henry, Ridgway; a sister, Mrs. Cora Anderson, Eldorado.

Other survivors include a stepson, Lowell Brinkley, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and six grandchildren. The body will lie in state at the Martin Funeral home in Eldorado. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

His wife, Mrs. Maud Parker, was a patient at Lightner hospital in this city, and when he failed to come in Tuesday to see her, Harold, their only son went out to their home Tuesday evening at Crab Orchard and found that he had died while in bed, presumably of a heart attack.

Mr. Parker was a miner by occupation and was 62 years of age. His body was brought to the Gaskins funeral home in this city where the funeral will be held Friday at 2 p. m. The Rev. W. L. Cummins will officiate and burial will be in Maplewood cemetery at Marion.

Olin Mathieson to Test Rocket Motors On Land Track Near Herrin

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UP) — Research and development of solid propellants for use as rocket fuels is now underway at Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation's Ordill Works near Marion, company official J. J. O'Neil said today.

O'Neil, assistant general manager of the explosives division, also disclosed that the company had purchased an additional tract of waste land south of Herrin for testing rocket motors.

O'Neil explained that the motors will be imbedded in huge blocks of concrete and held immobile for a minimum amount of disturbance.

"This will be the proving ground for the rocket propellants made at Ordill," O'Neil noted as he outlined the company plans and operations at Ordill in a speech prepared for delivery before the Carbondale Rotary Club.

O'Neil pointed out that there is no direct relationship between the solid propellants organization and the company's other facility in the same area which manufactures explosives and related products, concerning which first announcements were made in 1956.

Both are located on property leased from the United States Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior.

President Sticks To Belief of Business Upturn

Holds First Meeting With Reporters Since October 30

WASHINGTON AP — President Eisenhower said today he thinks a reasonable amount of red-ink financing would be far preferable to any increase in taxes.

The President, in his first meeting with reporters since last Oct. 30, stuck to his belief that "there will be a business upturn this year that will keep the new budget balanced. But he conceded that Congress might vote additional expenditures and thus force federal spending over his projected goal of $73,900,000,000,000.

The President, who suffered a mild stroke Nov. 25, appeared to be in an amiable, easy mood.

He said he felt fine.

The President said that while he had not actually considered resigning in connection with his November illness, he would have no recourse but to quit if he ever felt or was told by a group of eminent doctors that he was not up to doing his job.

But he said he did not anticipate any such development in this connection.

Other news conference highlights: —He said any summit meeting with the "Russians could be held only after lengthy, careful preparation starting on the ambassadorial level. Even after such preparation, he said there would be no point in a summit meeting unless there was clear evidence in advance that the top-level conversations would result in profitable agreement.

—He dismissed as so much trash a report that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles recently submitted his resignation under a fire of criticism and that Eisenhower had rejected it. He said Dulles is the wisest and most dedicated man he knows and possesses the greatest knowledge of foreign affairs of any man of his acquaintance.

—He said he saw no reason to maintain the federalized National Guard in Little Rock once city officials could express their confidence in their town. He added that he hopes such an expression of confidence will be forthcoming soon.

—He promised that in the congressional campaigns this fall he would do his best to help elect Republican candidates who share his philosophy of government.

—He said the details of Defense Department reorganization and greater service unification should come primarily from an agreement between Congress and the executive branch of government—particularly the armed services—rather than following any minutely detailed blueprint he might lay down.

—He said he had no intention of making the Gaither report public. This report by a distinguished panel of civilians has been represented as concluding that America is in potential grave military danger.

Congress: The Second Round

Editorial — BY BRUCE BOSSAT

The 85th Congress, in its second session, faces perhaps the biggest test that American lawmakers have confronted since World War II. It will be judged by the way it rises to the necessities put upon this country by Russia's advances in satellites and missiles.

President Eisenhower's administration is being measured in the same fashion, of course. But our government does not end at the White House gates. Congress has its own responsibilities for the safety and well being of the American people.

Some already have judged the President and found him wanting in leadership. They appeal to Congress to fill the gap.

Whether or not the criticisms are just, the critics certainly recognize that there are limits, too, on what the lawmakers can do.

The 531 men and women of the House and Senate cannot function as an executive body. For one thing, the Constitution forbids it. For another, effective decision is well nigh impossible for such numbers.

But wherever the administration's programs for the missile age seem to reflect timidity, narrow scope, or lack of imagination, the lawmakers can try to give them the sweep and breath and positiveness they ought to have.

What the country has a right to expect of them in this situation is not a routine rubber stamp on the President's proposals, but a searching appraisal and then a revamping where that is deemed wise.

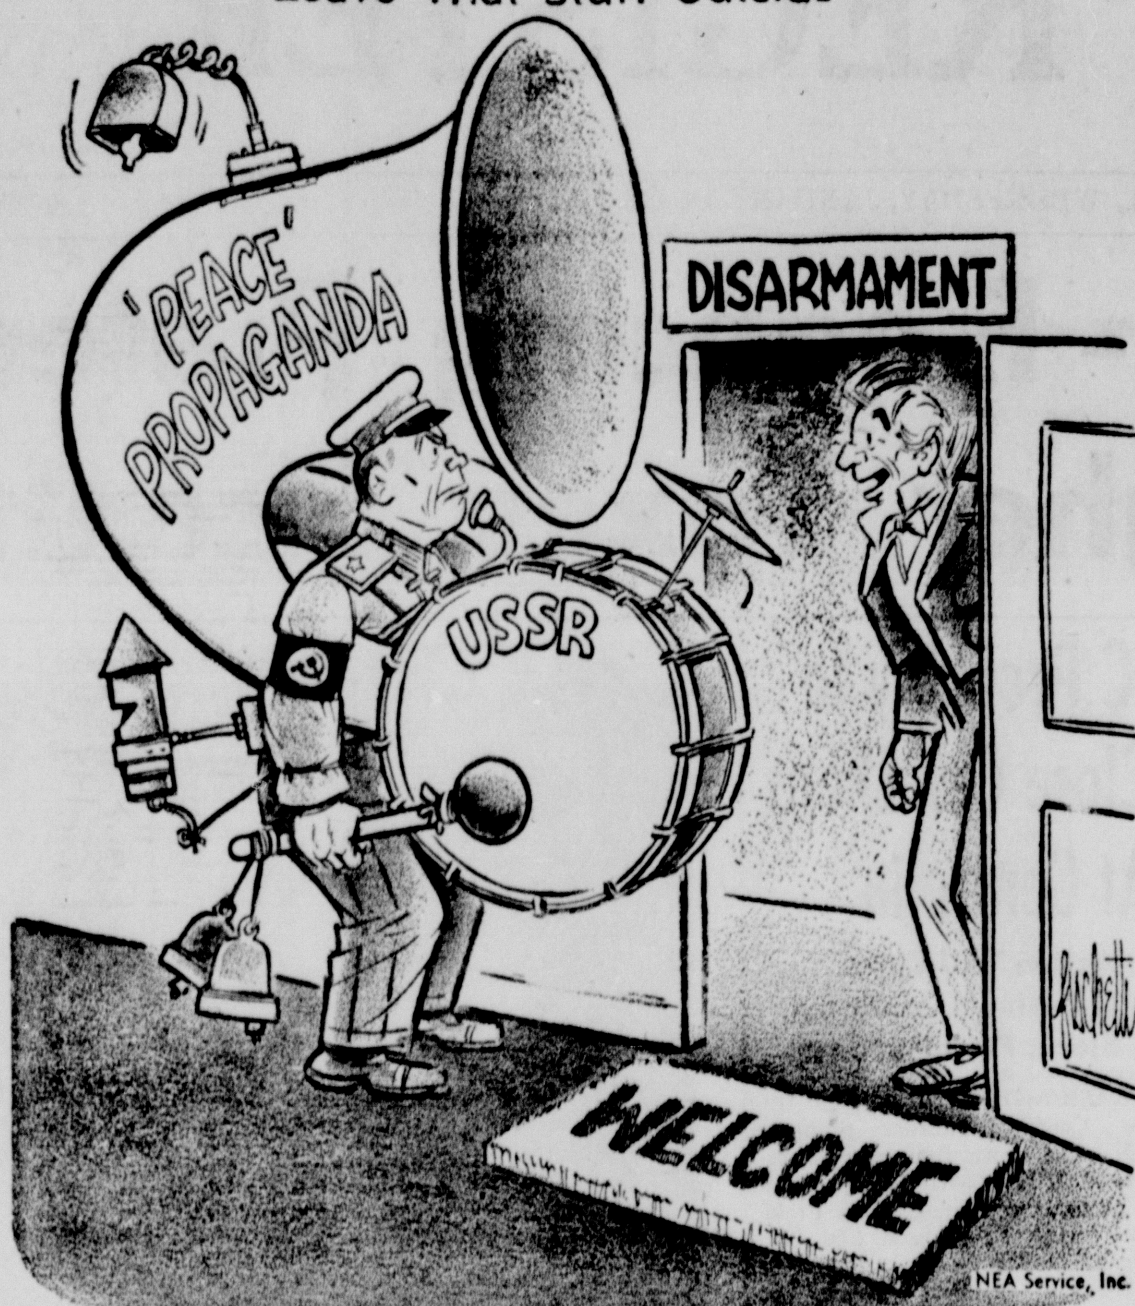

Inevitably, many lawmakers are mere followers. But Congress basically is intended to be a creative agency in American government. At no time in this century has there been greater need for its creative powers to be exercised to the fullest.

Congress Finds Automation Of Industry Is Bumpy Road

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Congress has just taken a new look at the recent effects of automation on the nation's economy in light of growing unemployment and a gloomy business outlook.

It finds that industry is discovering some unforeseen headaches in trying to automate. But automation is changing white collar work, especially in banking and retailing, faster than was expected.

The Joint Economic Committee of Congress took this new view of automation by calling on bankers, industrialists, scientists, labor leaders and automation experts to testify on the subject. Generally speaking, automation is the substitution of machines and electronic devices for the work of humans. It is given credit for a major assist in helping to curb prices in the face of soaring wages by Roger Bolz, editor of Automation Magazine. He told the committee:

"While compensation of industrial employees rose some 60 billion dollars—60 per cent—between 1948 and 1956, with corporate new profits taking little or no increase, prices of manufactured goods rose only 30 per cent.

THE COMMITTEE WAS ALSO impressed with his future look at the need for industry to automate:

"In 1975 the latest Department of Labor figures forecast a population increase of 55 million and a gross national product doubled to 858 billion dollars. A 100 per cent increase output will be demanded from a total labor force roughly 28 per cent over today's level."

Fluctuating prices and the inability to figure in advance just what savings will be achieved from the purchase of expensive automation machinery have turned into major obstacles to greater industrial automation, the committee was told.

One firm, it was revealed, had to abandon a new, automated plant which it built at a cost of between five and ten million dollars. It was discovered too late that the steel products it was designed to turn out would be more expensive than those produced in the plants of competitors, which were less automated.

MANY SMALL FIRMS, especially, have gone into bankruptcy because automated production lines have turned out to be more expensive than was originally estimated. And ever small price decreases on some products have made some newly automated production lines uneconomical.

It was also reported to the committee that the failure of firms to automate was a big contributor to unemployment. Failure to automate and keep up with competition has caused many companies to fold in the past couple of years.

A revolution in the handling of the paper work of banks is already under way, testimony revealed. Electronic calculators and other devices do hundreds of operations once performed by clerks. But the biggest impact on the public is expected to be the completely automatic handling of checks by the banks.

One proposal calls for the adoption of magnetic ink character recognition as the common machine language most suitable for check handling. It would be ink used by the bank, not necessarily by the public.

JAMES A. SUFFRIDGE, president of the AFL-CIO retail clerks union, reported on the plans of some grocery chains to introduce automatic equipment which would reduce shopping time for the housewife up to 85 per cent with "drastic cuts in store personnel."

These systems would involve electronic card selectors and automatic bagging machinery. He said it will also soon be possible to drive into a gas station, have your tank filled automatically and have the cost billed to your electronic credit card by machine.

Suffridge believes that more attention must be given to the social and economic impacts of automation and committee spokesmen said they agree with him.

Hugo Howell opened the car door and said, "I'll be waiting for you at a quarter of 11." He got out and leaned on the window ledge, chewing the cigar. "Where you going now?"

"I have things to do. Why?"
"He lifted his heavy shoulders. 'Just wondered.' He sighed. 'Bennett, I'm sorry about last night, about everything. I'm even sorry about that woman.'"

"All right," I said, "you're sorry."

He squinted his little red eyes. "You mad at me, Bennett?"
"No," I said shortly.
He waved a hand and stepped back. I drove away slowly and watched him enter the Harbor House. A number of things bothered me, including Chief Campbell's attitude that morning. And with the thought of the chief there came another thought, like a gun flash in the night, and suddenly one thing bothered me more than anything else.

I left Lakeport behind and headed for Mariana Beach, but before I reached it I turned into the narrow road leading down to the lake's edge, to the spot where Hugo Howell and I had fished the afternoon before.

Except for the birds and locusts it was very quiet. There were no boats on the blue-gray horizon and Perry's Monument was a far ghostly spire in the hazy sunlight. I stood on the edge of the rocky ledge and gazed downward, saw the white chipped spot on the rock where the bullet had struck beside Hugo Howell. And I saw something else; there was more than one chipped spot. Three others were clustered within a three-inch circle. I stood by the rock, turned my back to the lake and walked slowly in a straight line toward the woods, my gaze searching the ground.

I moved slowly, examining the terrain and trees on both sides of my route. At one spot, maybe 80 yards from the clearing, I was forced to walk around a small pine which had been uprooted and was lying flat. When I was past the pine I turned and looked back. I had a clear view of the rocky ledge where Howell and I had been sitting, but the view would have been obstructed if the pine had been standing. Once more I resumed my slow progress, watching the trees more carefully now, but not bothering with the stubby-trunked pines. I concentrated on the taller maples.

I'm not an outdoorsman, not by any stretch of the imagination, but I was fairly certain that I would recognize what I was looking for—if I found it. Presently I decided that I'd gone about far enough. I stopped, turned and gazed back. The ledge was still in plain sight. I began to feel a kind of cold excitement.

Pivoting slowly, I peered at the trunks of the maples around me. Then I stopped and moved four feet to one particular maple, a young maple, but sturdy and with a trunk thicker than others near it. I stood beneath it. I'm a little over six feet tall, and the lower branches were just above my head. Chest high on the trunk were five tiny holes, and I could cover them all with a hand. There were two holes, one above the other, and two more holes, about three inches away, side by side, and a single hole a few inches to the right of the second two. As my gaze traveled down the trunk I saw three more holes, about two feet apart. The third one was at the extreme base of the tree, almost hidden in the high grass and weeds. In the grass at my feet was a little pile of green moss, beginning to dry. I turned and peered back toward the lake. The ledge at the water's edge was still in clear view.

I took a deep breath, knowing at last what I had to do, and I started forward, thinking that I must return to my car and get back to town as quickly as possible. That one step saved my life, because the instant I moved there was a sharp flat report and something thudded into the tree trunk at the spot where my head had been. Before the echo of the shot had died away I was on my knees, crawling around behind the maple. There was another shot, and bark from the trunk splattered past my eyes. I lay flat, feeling black fear, and got the .38 from my inside coat pocket. I held it in my sweating palm, my finger curled around the trigger. But there was nothing to shoot at, nothing but the silent woods.

The minutes ticked by. And then, from the direction of the road leading to the highway, there came a faint rustling sound. I raised my head cautiously—and immediately ducked. There was another shot, and the bullet cut the weeds beside me. I began to worm myself self backward on my stomach to ward a cluster of low thick evergreens behind me. I reached the thick trees and rolled beneath them, feeling the needles prick through my thin coat. My hat was lying out by the maple.

I cocked the .38 and peered out from beneath the green branches. Nothing. Nothing but silence. Presently I thought I heard the far away sound of a car on the narrow road, but I wasn't sure.

I waited some more. Five minutes, 10. The heat was stifling, and the low-hanging needles pricked the back of my neck. Suddenly I squirmed out from beneath the stubby tree. I was on one knee, peering ahead, holding the gun, when a voice spoke from behind. "Drop the gun, Bennett." It was a familiar voice, rasping, thick.

Sparkman Predicts Five Million Jobless Unless Action Taken

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) predicted today unemployment will hit five million unless the administration does something about it quickly.

Sparkman called for an "ease up" instead of a cut-back of federal urban renewal, home building and other public works projects to open up more jobs.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) joined in the gloomy statements following government reports showing unemployment last month hit an eight-year high. The 3,374,000 jobless figure was the highest for any December since the 1949 recession.

"We're getting pretty close to the danger point," Douglas said.

A top labor economist, Stanley H. Ruttenberg, of the AFL-CIO, forecast a "considerably higher" unemployment figure for this month. He said totals would continue to climb in February and March.

But Ruttenberg said there might be a "turnaround" at midyear if military spending was increased above the 40 billion dollar defense budget proposed by President Eisenhower.

Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell has said unemployment would not become a "serious" problem unless it rose to six million. Mitchell believes there will be an upturn in business before it goes that high.

The Conference on Economic Progress (CEP) called Tuesday for a three billion annual increase in defense spending. It said the President's domestic program was "dangerously inadequate" and the economy presently was in a "seriously recessionary state."

The CEP is a non-profit group which numbers on its national committee United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther.

Gen. Trudeau Named Army Research Chief

TOKYO (AP)—Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, newly appointed U. S. Army research and development chief, said today he would do his best to defend the Army budget if called upon to do so by a congressional committee.

The 55-year-old former Army intelligence chief was notified today that he has been chosen to replace Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, who decided to retire in protest over lagging Army missile development.

Gavin said he would not defend the new Army budget, which has raised questions as to whether the administration is allowing the Army adequate money for development of new weapons.

Trudeau, who was taking a break in Tokyo from his post as a corps commander in Korea, said at a news conference that he had defended the Army G-1 and G-2 budgets.

"If I have to do it here (regarding the budget as a whole)," he said, "I will do the best I can."

Rites Thursday for Mrs. Charles Scott

The funeral of Mrs. Charles Scott, 70, Ridgway, who was found dead Tuesday morning, will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at New Hope General Baptist church. Rev. Darnell Casey will conduct the service and burial will be at Jackson cemetery.

Supreme Court Rejects Rulings In Two Areas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court has reinforced its free speech doctrine in two important areas: Sex and city ordinances.

It did so in two decisions Monday. One struck down lower court rulings that permitted the post office to ban from the mails certain issues of two nudist magazines and another magazine entitled, "One, the Homosexual Magazine."

The other knocked out an ordinance in the town of Baxley, Ga., requiring anyone to get a permit before trying to sign up members in a labor union or other dues paying organization.

The nudist magazines in question had two specific issues of "Sunshine & Health" and "Sun" both advocating nudism.

Benjamin Cooper Switches Party

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Benjamin O. Cooper has quit the Democratic Party and joined the Republican Party.

Cooper, who was defeated in 1952 as Illinois state auditor by Orville E. Hodge, said he will run as state senator from the 49th District on a GOP ticket.

Cooper made the announcement of the party change from the office of State's Atty. John J. Hoban of St. Clair County.

Mrs. Eldredge Joyner Dies at Eldorado

Mrs. Annie Joyner, 68, died at her home at 2607 Locust street in Eldorado Wednesday afternoon after an illness of about two months. She was the widow of the late Eldredge Joyner.

Survivors include: two daughters, Miss Sylvia Joyner, Eldorado, and Mrs. Minnie Faye Wright, Flint, Mich.; a brother, Oscar Humphreys, Perry County, Ky.; three sisters, Mrs. Bertha Kelly of Eldorado, Mrs. Gussie Stephens, Millstone, Ky., and Mrs. Alice Edwards of Benton.

There are four grandchildren and one great-grandchild surviving.

The body is in care of the Martin funeral home in Eldorado.

Irvin Named to County Welfare Services Group

Peter W. Cahill, executive secretary of the Illinois Public Aid Commission, today announced the appointment of Eugene Irvin of Harrisburg to the Saline County Welfare Services committee.

The appointment was made on recommendation of the county board, Mr. Cahill stated.

Mr. Irvin was appointed to complete the unexpired term of the Rev. William Fuson, who resigned.

Talk on Kiwanis Anniversary by Fred Wunderlich

A Kiwanis education address in observance of the 43rd anniversary of Kiwanis International was presented to members of the Harrisburg Kiwanis club last night by Fred Wunderlich, immediate past president of Kiwanis Division 16.

Wunderlich gave the history of Kiwanis International and how the organization functions with a fellowship that attracts members to their own regular community meetings and to district and national meetings.

The organization is composed of 30 districts in the United States, Canada, Alaska, Yukon Territory and Hawaii. The motto is "We Build," especially in fellowship, character and leadership, Wunderlich stated.

Harrisburg is a member of Division 16 of the Illinois Eastern Iowa district, and is composed of 12 clubs.

President Bob Rushing announced that the club will attend a joint fellowship meeting at Herrin next Tuesday evening. A bus will leave from the Masonic temple here at 6 p. m. promptly that the members will arrive in time for the 7 o'clock meeting at Herrin. Representatives of clubs in Division 15 and 16 will attend the meeting. President Rushing urged a 100 per cent attendance of members from the local club.

On the following Tuesday, on Jan. 28, the Harrisburg club will meet with the annual Saline County Soil District meeting at the high school at 6:30 p. m. The Kiwanis club is sponsor for the meeting with the Soil District and the meeting will be a ladies' night affair.

At last night's meeting Millard Lynch and Tom Davenport from the Rotary and Jaycees outlined a proposed four-club billboard to be placed on a highway entering Harrisburg. The proposition would include club emblems on the sign which will advertise the civic clubs to tourists and other interested motorists.

Clubs contacted include the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and Jaycees and the sign would be purchased from Ed Harold.

CHICAGO (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower will attend a reception Monday for the 100 sponsors of a $100-a-plate Republican fund raising dinner.

The President will speak at the dinner which will kick off the 1958 GOP congressional campaign. A reception before the dinner was added to the schedule Tuesday after it was learned the presidential party would arrive at 3:30 p. m. c.s.t. Monday at Midway Airport instead of 5 p. m.

Couple Who Lost Eight Children in Accident Begin New Family

SIGOURNEY, Iowa (AP)—A couple whose eight children were killed in a car-train collision have begun a new family with the birth of a son.

A 10-pound 2-ounce boy was born Tuesday to Mrs. Ruth Hammes, 39, and mother and child were doing fine.

"We're both very happy," her husband, Richard, said as the couple posed with the new son in her hospital room.

The eight Hammes children, ranging from 1 to 9 years, were killed Oct. 25, 1956, when a train crashed into the side of the family car as Mrs. Hammes was taking the older children to school.

Altgeld Hall at SIU to Undergo Remodelling

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—Sixty-two year old Altgeld Hall, the second oldest building on Southern Illinois University's campus, will undergo a $200,000 face-lifting in a remodeling project scheduled to start this month.

Work contracts totaling $210,587 have been awarded to five companies which will revamp the traditional center of campus music classes. The job is scheduled to be completed sometime in August. Other contracts have been awarded for an FM radio transmitter building.

Plans call for the entire three story building, with the exception of the museum, to be air conditioned. The first floor will include a 30 by 50 foot choir rehearsal room, theory and general classroom, combination listening room and lounge, departmental offices and new rest rooms.

The second floor will be dominated by practice rooms and studios—25 individual and ensemble practice studios and 10 pianos, voice and organ rooms. All the rooms will be sound-proofed. The third floor piano-practice room will be extensively renovated.

Contracts totaling $32,091 also have been awarded for the construction of a transmitter building for SIU's FM radio station. The 10 by 65 foot brick and concrete block building, scheduled to be finished early in June, will include one room for storage and maintenance of SIU public address equipment, and a main room adequate for the present FM transmitter and future AM and television apparatus.

House Speeds Toward Passage Of First Bill in New Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House speeded toward certain passage today the first bill of the week old session—an emergency authorization of $549,670,000 for missile-armed military construction.

"The bill got a 'green light' from the Rules Committee this morning and was taken to the floor at noon for two hours of debate. Leaders expected it to pass by a near unanimous vote.

Building authority provided by the bill includes a start on the nation's third big intercontinental ballistic missile base at a site to be chosen.

The measure was rushed through the legislative mill in the midst of these developments:

—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy announced that three of the nation's top military men—Gen. F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and his two predecessors, Gen. Omar E. Bradley and Adm. Arthur W. Radford—have agreed to advise him on streamlining the Defense Department. He said he also will seek the advice of "highly competent consultants" from military and civilian life.

—Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee reported that the Air Force has developed a long-range detection system to give adequate warning of an enemy ballistic missile attack. He said the system will be installed soon—at least two years earlier than originally planned.

—Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, retiring Army research chief, said in New York that the nation is "entering an extremely critical period" in weapons development. He said it forced into war with Russia now, the United States would have a "re-issued World War II force facing the Soviet army, largest and best equipped

Claims Robbers Take $23,000

CHICAGO (AP)—Willie Louis, 52, a laborer, told authorities today he was robbed of $23,000, most of which he said he won gambling in the Army, by two men who forced their way into his basement apartment.

Louis told police two young Negroes wearing hoods knocked on the door of his apartment, where he lived alone, Tuesday night, and said they were from his landlord's office.

When he opened the door, Louis said one of the bandits drew a gun and forced him to lean against a wall with his hands up while the other looted the apartment. He said they found the money, in 100, 50 and 10-dollar denominations in a canvas bag in a closet. The victim said he had won $17,000 in the Army, from which he was discharged in 1945, and accumulated the rest since then. He said he distrusted banks and had marked the 100 and 50-dollar bills by writing his name across them in ink.

Ridgway and Cave-in-Rock Win Greater Egyptian Tourney Openers

Pope County and Shawneetown Lose; One Game Tonight

Ridgway and Cave-in-Rock advanced to the semifinals of the Greater Egyptian tournament by winning opening round games from Pope County and Shawneetown Tuesday night.

Tonight's session will be a one-game affair with Equality and Rosiclare in the limelight. This should be a humdinger. It will mark the third meeting for the clubs, with Rosiclare the winner both times by close margins — 59-57 and 61-56.

In the tourney opener unbeaten Ridgway walloped Pope County, 79-55, holding a commanding lead from the start, building up a 19-3 first quarter advantage. The victory ran Ridgway's season record to 14-0. Pope County has won three and dropped nine.

Roger Suttner, Ridgway 6-10½ center, played only the first quarter and rolled in 11 points. The big guy has been suffering with a cold and Coach Bob Dallas kept him on the bench the final three frames. Four Ridgway players, in addition to Suttner, entered the double figure scoring column — Gene Crawford had 15, Ernie Clifford 13, Don Sanders 12 and Dave Drone 12.

Carols King of Pope County was the game's top scorer with 26 points. Ridgway's reserves played a lot of the third and all of the fourth quarter. In winning Ridgway hit on 30 of 64 field goal tries for a .469. Pope County shot 62 times, connected 22 for an average of .355.

Shawneetown staged a great fight against favored Cave-in-Rock and led until midway in the second quarter, but couldn't keep the pace and after leading 15-10 at the quarter, trailed 29-25 at half time.

A good third quarter extended the Rockers' advantage to 51-38. Shawneetown held a 20-16 fourth quarter scoring edge, but fell short 67-58.

Ted Switzer of Cave-in-Rock was top scorer with 29 points, including 12 field goals. Joining Switzer in double-figure scoring were Shore, 14 and Porter, 11.

Jim Brazier, Shawneetown's sophomore pivot man, paced his club with 18 points. Hunsaker and Cox, with 12 and 11, also got in double figures.

Cave-in-Rock scored at a .455 clip, hitting 25 of 55 field goal tries, and Shawneetown had an identical mark of the first game loser, 22 of 49 for a .449 average.

Semifinal play will be held Thursday. The opening game at 7 p. m. will have Ridgway vs. the winner of tonight's Equality-Rosiclare game. The nightcap features Galatia, who drew a bye through

Expect Record $116,000 for Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. — A record gross of $116,000 was foreseen for the 33rd Hambletonian today after final eligibility payments were made on 80 three-year-old trotters.

E. J. Hayes, president of the Du Quoin State Fair, anticipated that the track would be two seconds faster for the second trotting of the prized stake here after 100,000 yards of clay was used to resurface the mile oval.

The race, which drew a record 25,000 fans last August, will be run on Wednesday, Aug. 27, with the final starting fee of $1,000 due at noon Aug. 25.

Sharpshooter, leading money winner among two-year-old trotters last year with $50,393, was the winter book favorite. The horse, owned by Arden Homestead Stable, Goshen, N. Y., and trained by Harry Pownall, won four of his last five stakes starts last year.

Second choice was Mix Hanover, a son of Hoot Mon, owned by K. D. Owen, Houston, Tex., who won the $24,000 Castleton here last year, with Record Mat, owned by L. E. Lake, Colfax Ind., a close third choice. Record Mat was the world trotting champion two-year-old trotting gelding in 1957.

Hickory Smoke won the Hambletonian last year when run at Du Quoin for the first time, posting a 2:00 1/5 best heat.

Dorrisville, jumping against the big New Haven boys, committed 23 fouls, while the visitors had only nine.

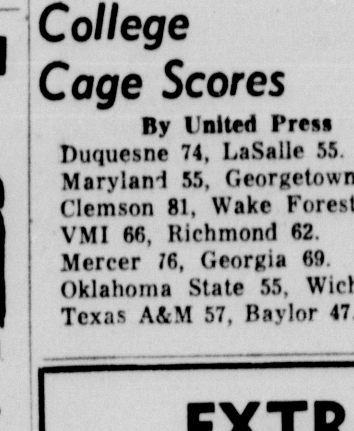

In action for Dorrisville were Bob Brown, Ronnie Hutchison, Bob Thompson, Donnie Hutchison, Albert Beal, Randy Reynolds, Art Gibbons, Gene Turner and James Vaughn.

Dorrisville closes its home schedule Thursday at 3:30 p. m. meeting Broughton in a Midget conference game.

Todd Hill (409 8 feet), Staten Island, N. Y., is the highest point on the Atlantic coast of the U. S. between Maine and Florida.

Don Blasingame Signs New Cardinal Contract; Anxious To Begin His Third Season

ST. LOUIS — Don Blasingame, 25, who had the unenviable task of trying to fill the shoes of Red Schoendienst, signed his 1958 contract for a "substantial increase" today and said he was anxious to begin his third season as the St. Louis Cardinal second baseman.

The salary wasn't divulged, but it was believed the hustling Blasingame received a $4,000 increase from $9,000 to $13,000.

In replying to questions of the coming season, Blasingame continually talked in terms of "we" instead of "I."

"See what I mean," General Manager Bing Devine interrupted. "That's why we think so much of him. He talks about what the team is going to do. He's what we call a 'winning' ballplayer."

The little 5-9, 160 pound Blasingame shrugged off the praise of his boss and pointed out that his biggest goal was to help the Cards move from second to first place.

"We got close enough to taste it last year," Blasingame said. "That was my biggest thrill; up there fighting all the way."

Last season, Blasingame more than doubled his runs batted in output from 27 to 58, upped his batting average from .261 to .271 and raised his home run total from none to eight.

"I swung from the end of the bat instead of choking up," Blasingame said, "but the added experience and the confidence it gave me helped more than anything."
